Welcome

Have you got on the Impossible Burger band wagon? The plant-based meat alternative is growing so much that the Oakland-based company says it is stretched thin and running out of the “meat”. That’s the bad news if you have become a fan. The good news is that it is only temporary and better yet they continue the march toward doubling the amount of restaurants that carry it (including 7,000 Burger Kings). The company issued a statement that it is not facing a shortage of ingredients it uses and plans on catching up with the demand as soon as they can hire a 3rd shift. They are doing everything they can to serve their product to you. And they aren’t the only ones, there are two supernatural forces in the universe working overtime and doing everything they can to reach you. We must talk about them. Welcome to Campion.
